Arctic Power is taking a number of steps to correct errors = in the recent news stories, including contacts with the Associated = Press, Anchorage Daily News, and Fairbanks News-Miner. Specifically, = AP is emphasizing that no State funds are involved in Mr. Liddy's visit = and that he is not being "hired." I believe that Arctic Power = intends to pay Mr. Liddy's travel costs from non-public funds.

I was also told that he is contemplating a possible appearance on the = Rick Rydell show tomorrow further to clarify the record.

Subject: Becoming an Outdoors Woman (BOW) Camps

Governor:

In addition to your planned trip to McNeil River this summer (July 25-28, for four people), I'd like to invite you to attend, or even be an invited guest speaker or judge, at one or more of our Becoming an Outdoors Woman (BOW) camps. These are tremendously popular camps that introduce women to outdoors activities, including hunting, fishing, food preparation, camping, boating, and shooting.

For information, you can refer to the following links:

June 20-22 at Lost Lake, south of Fairbanks toward Delta:
http://www.sf.adfg.state.ak.us/Region3/Programs/BOW/PDFs/BOWSummerRegFinal08.pdf

August 1-3 in Haines:
http://www.sf.adfg.state.ak.us/Region3/Programs/BOW/PDFs/BOWSERegFinal08.pdf

If you wish to participate, you could stay for the entire camp, for portions of a day, or simply for a cameo appearance during one of the many functions. Last year, I attended the session at Lost Lake for the better portion of two days, and one evening they had me judge the moose calling contest (fun and funny for all involved).

I believe that you would enjoy the BOW, and I know that the staff, volunteers, and participants would be honored to have you join them.

Please let me know.

Thanks, DL.

Hello ... just thought I would let you know that I just heard some very nice comments about Governor Palin and her new baby on KLove, a national Christian radio station. ☺ They have a link to the Anchorage Daily News article on their website, but the DJs were talking about the statement that Governor Palin released about their child being a gift from God. I believe the statement made on-air was, "what an awesome Governor the state of Alaska has!"

Just thought I would share. ☺

Hi Janice,

I just wanted to pass on to you to pass on to the Governor that just now on CNN Headline News on the Glenn Beck Show Mr. Beck did a piece on Governor Palin's new born and congratulated her. It was the last piece on his show which also featured comments in support of ANWR in the beginning. The Governor's picture was shown and he read her quote about her new son with special needs. Beck also has a daughter with "special needs" he stated. Beck showered the Governor with extremely high compliments for her remarks and really really did a nice job promoting the Governor as a fantastic person. It might be worth passing this on as it was live on national TV for 5 minutes just ended 8pm EST.

"Joe Schmidt is making strides towards turning the Correctional Officer workforce into a professional team that will run an ethical and committed Department. ... MESSAGE:
Dear Governor:
First, many warm wishes to your family from our family for Trig's birth. You'll be one busy person now, but we all know you are a strong woman and up to your multiple callings. I will keep you and Trig in my prayers.

And next...I just read the article in the Daily News that the Correctional Officers Union issued a censure of Joe Schmidt. I want you to know that I stand by my opinion - which I have shared with you on several occasions - that your appointment of Joe was brilliant. Joe and I have not spent much time together recently, but I follow Corrections carefully and I know that he is doing well in all areas. His comment in the newspaper that taking a firm hand in investigations on Officer wrong doing strained his relationship with the Union is correct. The union is run by the same group as when I served as Commissioner and had they thought of censuring me, they certainly would have done so. I consider the action meaningless in every sense.

Joe Schmidt is making strides towards turning the Correctional Officer workforce into a professional team that will run an ethical and committed Department. While Joe and I have not discussed this issue, I know without asking that the union activists object to being held to higher standards.

Regarding the medical question behind which the activists are hiding, communicable diseases -unfortunately- are now and will continue to be major issues for institutions of all types that house large groups of people - including tour ships, as you know. Again, I know without asking that Joe knows the agencies that set guidelines for dealing with outbreaks.

My apologies for such a lengthy e-mail. I just want you to know that Joe Schmidt is doing the right things.

With best personal regards,
Margaret M. Pugh

Subject: RE: Lyda

Here it is, Governor.

April 23, 2008

Dear Senator Green:

I am in receipt of your letter requesting the gasline special session call be expanded to include parental notification and partial-birth abortion. As you are aware, I fully support these bills. Quite frankly, I am surprised at this request, considering the ample opportunity the Legislature had to address these issues in the recently concluded legislative session.

House Bill 301, legislation prohibiting the practice of partial-birth abortions, passed the House and was transmitted to the Senate with 18 days remaining in the regular session. The Senate companion measure, SB 264, was introduced in February, but no action had been taken at the time HB 301 arrived in the legislative chamber which you preside over. Despite the apparent opposition of the committee chair, you referred HB 301 to the same committee as SB 264 where it remained until the adjournment of the Legislature.

Likewise, House Bill 364, legislation helping protect the fundamental right of parents to raise their children and be involved in critical pregnancy decisions by their young daughters, passed the House of Representatives with sufficient time to be heard and acted upon by the full Senate; however it, too, was referred to the same committee as its Senate companion measure, SB 279. You exercised your discretionary authority as the Senate President when you referred HB 364 to a committee which had not held one hearing on that companion legislation despite the fact it was introduced on the very first day of the legislative session.

As the end of session drew near, passionate supporters of these measures made an attempt to move these bills to the floor for a vote. I was surprised to see that you and Senator Huggins voted with the opponents of these bills to block such a vote. While you may provide a technical explanation of why your internal rules do not allow this, I have been informed about a tool you had but chose not to use to advance these bills.

Rule 48. Discharge of Bills from Committee. (a) If the majority of the full membership of a standing, special, or joint committee desire that any legislation pending before the committee be considered, they may present the request, in writing, to the presiding officer. The presiding officer shall sign the request and this action shall be noted in the journal. The committee chair affected shall schedule the specified legislation for consideration within three days after transmittal of the request by the presiding officer to the committee chair.

As I understand this rule, Senator Huggins, if he felt passionate about doing all he could to ensure these bills became law, could have submitted a request along with his colleagues to get HB 301 and HB 364 scheduled for a fair hearing.

I believe the majority of Alaskans support these measures as well as the majority of all members in the Alaska Legislature; however, the Senate failed to act on them.

It doesn't make sense to allow your recent decisions to derail Alaska's ability to move a gas pipeline forward. I do, however, feel these issues are important enough to be handled independently, outside oil and gas deliberations.

As you are aware, Article 2, Section 9 of the Alaska Constitution allows the Legislature, by a vote of two-thirds, to call itself into a special session not to exceed 30 days. Are you considering this as an option?

Since the House of Representatives held significant debate and public testimony on these measures, a shorter session, possibly in Anchorage, could be productive to address both bills. I am interested in hearing how, as Senate President, you would ensure that Alaskans will finally

It has required that my family move to escape certain state educational systems but has resulted in his admission to a wonderful school in Hattiesburg Mississippi, the Dubard School for Speech and Language Disorders. In four months our son went from not talking to saying his first sentence.

So many times people assume that a child's disorder is due to "the sin of the parent". It is refreshing to read the story of Trig. I look forward to following his development via the Web.

MESSAGE:

Dear Gov. Palin:

I just watched the Glenn Beck show on the television and was overcome with joy when he quoted you on your "perspective" on the birth of your fifth child. Sarah, congratulations to you and your family for having such a special outlook for the blessings bestowed upon you all. God is good! I hope and pray that your message is heard across the planet. We as Americans can learn so much from those with special needs. I personally want to thank you for your feelings and your faith which will be shared with all whom have the good fortune to hear your message. God bless you and your family!

Dear Governor Palin:

I heard about the recent addition to your family on the Glenn Beck show tonight. My family will keep your and your family in our thoughts and prayers. Having worked as an anesthetist @ Atlanta Children's Medical Center in Atlanta, GA. I know the challenges you face. I also know that you have been blessed with a child that will love you unconditionally and will face any health challenges with a bravery unkwown to most adults.

We face some speech problems with our adopted son, Walker, but your story reminds us of how truly blessed we are. God has placed this child with you because of the life you will provide.

Your story serves as a reminder that there are still many good people running our country, even as the headlines would have us believe otherwise. You can be sure we will follow your political career and give you all the support we can muster.

God bless you and your family.

Before the summer driving season kicks in- and that's assuming we may not need legislation to eliminate collection of the gas tax. I'm hearing there are ways we may get to do this, and one catalyst is the Juneau power outage that some see as a vehicle to declare the necessity to give alaskans a break on outrageous energy costs.

He's added fun, challenges, lots of love, a reason to slow down, lots of friends we wouldn't have had otherwise, introduction to Special Olympics, lots of joy, and maybe a few gray hairs!!! I appreciate so much your positive attitude and your acknowledgement that his creator is the same as the rest of ours! We pray God will bless you and encourage you as he grows up and develops. Your older children are going to be the best thing for him. Enjoy a new journey of which many of us are a part. The Lord is with you on this wonderful journey.

Congratulations on the birth of your beautiful boy.

I have a fifteen week old daughter, Annie, diagnosed at birth with Down Syndrome. I am also a 44 year old mother and this is my fifth child. The only thing in the first weeks after diagnosis that lifted my spirits was holding my precious daughter. She is beautiful!!! And so loved. I highly recommend the book "Life is a Blessing" by Clara Lejeune. It is a biography of her father, Jerome Lejeune. It is a remarkable story about a remarkable man, who had much to say on Down Syndrome.

I love the personal blogs of other mothers, in particular, emma-sage.org. Wonderful! Loveandlearning.com is a method of teaching children to read developed by Joe Kotlinski, the father of daughter with Down Syndrome. Signing Times is a child's video series on sign language, my daughter listens to music all the time. DSRTF.org is doing research to improve cognitive abilities for children. So many resources, for this journey. May God bless you, your son and your family. Love, Ann Lynch

Subject: Cascade Creek Letter of Support to approve the Coeur Paste Tailings Facility

Dear Mr. Griffin,

I placed a hard copy letter in the mail yesterday addressed to your office. I am following up on that letter by providing an electronic copy of our letter of support for the hard work and final plan submitted by Coeur to find a win-win situation to what appears at times to be an endless task. I have worked with the folks at Couer throughout much of their progress in the last few years and have found them honest and genuine in their approach to "do the right thing" in protecting the environment and find innovative and non invasive solutions to extract ore in an environmentally friendly manner.

I ask that you consider their PTF plan as the last step in allowing them to move forward. I look forward to your review process and ask that you approve their plan as submitted.

Best regards,

Duff

Dear Governor Palin,

First, congratulations on the new addition to your family.

I would like to comment on funding for our fire hall which is in DESPERATE need of upgrading. The roof leaks, the floor is sinking, the space is cramped, there is limited room for training and equipment. This poor place has been on the "back burner" of projects for so long, it's truely in a sorry state. I am a Medical Technologist at Petersburg Medical Center and often hear of the "near-miss" collisions of the Fire/EMs crews as they are pulling out of the bay to go out on a call. Traffic on main street must be stopped in order to get out and back into the garage.Our fire/EMS crews are all volunteer and right now we're in a slump as far as numbers go.I think this new building will not only help preserve the equipment and morale of the staff we have, but will help recruit new people as well. We need your help!

Thank you and God bless you and your beautiful family.

In 1972 our family Dr. was kind enough to inform us that most families would turn a child born with Downs over to an institution and he brought to light the difficulties of raising such a child.

I can only imagine all the fun and wonderful times we would have missed if we had followed the Drs. suggestion .

The amount of love Jeffery has for all people and animals is unmeasurable

Congratulations on the birth of your son Trig!

Have you heard about ReignDown USA? I have been trying to spread the word in Anchorage over the last few weeks, but no one, including the churches and KTUU TV seems to care about such an important event in our nation's history. It saddens me greatly. There is a national day of prayer, but this is different.

On Saturday, April 26, beginning at 2 p.m. Alaska time, ReignDown will occur at the National Mall in Washington DC and will continue to the Capitol Building on Sunday, April 27. It is a day of repentance and prayer. There are many state venues for this event across our nation and a few international venues. Unfortunately, Alaska isn't one of them. Several state governors have declared proclamations bout this important day. God TV will be broadcasting the event live on their Direct TV channel as well as webcasting it through their website, www.God.tv.

ReignDownUSA's website is www.ReignDownUSA.com if you would like more information.

Thank you for your time.

Subject: SIR message points

Mr. Griffin,

Enough is enough!

We need the jobs that this mine will provide and as you can tell by most of the local sentiment regarding SEACC, they need to really become a non-factor. Most of those folks came here to fight all development and now that they've tied this up for years the costs associated with this have almost become unmanageable.

They have no bottom line as they continue to get "donations" from special interest groups and can continue to fight on.

Again, I implore you to no longer concern yourself SEACC's opinions.
The locals here don't care what they have to say anymore. We the people of Juneau and the surrounding southeast communities are sick and tired of their ability to prevent job growth for our future generations. As I have two young children here, I would like to see continued job opportunity so there are reasons to stay in this community we love so much.

Subject: Kensington Modified Plan of Operations

Mr. Griffin,

I am writing to comment on the 3/21/08 Supplemental Information Report for the Kensington Modified Plan of Operations.

I fully support the findings by the U.S. Forest Service that the Modified Plan does not result in impacts substantially different than those studied under the three prior SEIS's. This plan is materially similar to prior plans that have been studied, except in areas where it lessens various impacts. The Modified Plan decreases the impact to wetlands, decreases the size of the tailings berm and the corresponding space required, decreases water consumption, and decreases potential problems from closure/reclamation. This plan has the support of the environmental groups that have vigorously opposed this mine.

Further, the Modified Plan elminates the usage of Cascade Point as a marine transportation terminal for the mine operations, eliminating another primary concern of the environmental groups.

Juneau needs the Kensington mine, the jobs it brings, and the economic diversification that it provides. If the opening of Kensington is unreasonably delayed, Coeur Alaska will be forced to abandon its enormous investment in this project, killing this project and seriously harming the ability to attract responsible resource development companies to Alaska.

I urge the Forest Service to expedite approval of the Modified Plan.

Dear Gov.

Ivy called me last night. She told me she thought the Speaker and Sen. President could call the legislature into special session by themselves. It is my understanding from reading the state constitution and statute below that they must get a 2/3 majority in both bodies to vote with them to do that. I have not talked with Lyda Green since she called to chew me out a couple of weeks ago. If I can help in any way, let me know.

AK Constitution, Article II, Section 9 - Special Sessions.

Special sessions may be called by the governor or by vote of two-thirds of the legislators. The vote may be conducted by the legislative council or as prescribed by law. At special sessions called by the governor, legislation shall be limited to subjects designated in his proclamation calling the session, to subjects presented by him, and the reconsideration of bills vetoed by him after adjournment of the last regular session. Special sessions are limited to thirty days.

Sec. 24.05.100. Special sessions.

(a) The legislature may hold a special session not exceeding 30 calendar days in length. The special session shall be called in either of the following ways:

(1) The governor may call the legislature into special session by issuing a proclamation. At a special session called by the governor, legislation is limited to the subjects designated by the governor in the proclamation or to the subjects presented by the governor, and to reconsideration of legislation, if any, vetoed following a regular session of that legislature. To enable the legislators to make travel and other arrangements, a proclamation for a special session shall be issued at least 30 days in advance of the convening date stated in the proclamation unless

(A) the proclamation is issued under AS 26.23.020 (k);

(B) the special session is called to address a disaster; in this subparagraph, "disaster" has the meaning given in AS 26.23.900 ;

(C) the proclamation is issued while both houses are in regular or special session; or

(D) the proclamation is issued within one hour after the second house has adjourned from a regular or special session.

(b) A special session may be held at any location in the state. If a special session called under (a)(1) of this section is to be convened at a location other than at the capital, the governor shall designate the location in the proclamation. If a special session called under (a)(2) of this section is to be convened at a location other than at the capital, the presiding officers shall agree to and designate the location in the poll conducted of the members of both houses.

Govenor Palin, congratulations on the birth of your baby. I know how excited you are adding another "angel to your family.

When I read the email about the birth, I felt compelled to inform you of a movie called "Mr. Blue Sky". You might have heard about it since it has been circulating in many countries as well as in the United States.

It is a heart-warming love story,which is as much about hope for children born with Down syndrome as it is an ispiration for all children born with any intellectual or developmental challenges. The main message of the film is: Social inclusion and acceptance for all of these children.

"Mr. Blue Sky" is a viewing experience one cannot forget as it ultimately will change the way society views all people as individuals first and foremost.

We hope and pray that the movie will have a positive effect on the number of abortions taking place throughout the world and to open the hearts and minds of those who still harbor many prejudices.

Please visit our website and take a look at the trailer. If you decide to alert your citizens about the film we are prepared to donate a portion of the proceeds to the Down syndrome community in Alaska.

Governor, Bill McAllister would like a few minutes with you today to talk about Senator Green's request to expand the call. We need to make sure the letter has been released before the interview.

Also, Steve Quinn with AP would like a phoner with you regarding Trig. He is doing a lengthy story on you and the baby to run this weekend. Al Grillo would like to snap a few photos for the story.

MESSAGE:

I wanted to send you a short note to tell you how very proud I am of you and your family to make the decision to keep your precious gift of life even with the diagnosis of Down Syndrome. My family and I did the same thing 5 years ago. And this friday (4/25) my family will celebrate Tyler's 5th birthday.

It is a challenge... everyday... some days are easier than others, but somehow we always make it. And every day I thank God for sending me my son.

I don't know what lies ahead, and I don't know what new challenges await both my son and my family... But I do know that is the ride of a lifetime, and I don't want to miss one minute of it.

I pray that you, too, will experience the joy that we have now. I know you have a million email's about this subject already, but I do hope that this email finds its way to your desk and you can take comfort in knowing that there are MILLIONS of people out here praising your decision. I for one will continue to follow your story.

Love,

Kevin

On behalf of my family I would like to congratulate you and your family on the birth of your son. I felt compelled to contact you because I would like to offer you and your family, my support with the arrival of Trig with Down Syndrome. While I don't know what you are going through I do know what I went through when my daughter was diagnosed with Downs. I call it Downs because that is what sounds right to me. Lillian is 16 months old now and is lucky enough to have 47 chromosomes. My wife and I are strong supporters of special needs and would like to offer you any support you may need. I know that I am always interested in hearing/seeing different stages of development for kids with down's. Even though I work with SED children, have worked with developmentally delayed kids in the past and have a wife who is a special education teacher I was still ignorant of a lot to do with Down's. I am sure you have searched the web repeatedly. I remember what it felt like when the doctor tol d us in the recovery room that she suspected Lillian had Down's. I went straight home and logged onto the web and found out that kids with down's "are more likely to have _________ (insert various problems)" I now know Lily's birth was my God placing this special soul with parents that would value her soul. My wife Netti and I now joke around that my daughter is more advanced than the rest of us because she has more chromosomes than everyone else. It is such a relief to laugh about the disorder and to for a brief moment let go of the worries of (for me) protecting her from being teased by being different. I noticed you have been in touch with the Alaska Down Syndrome Congress. I am a new member having jsut arrived here in AK last fall, but enjoyed the one event I did participate in and would recommend seeing if we are a fit for you and your family. Anyway, if you or your family would like my family's support please feel free to contact me. By the way this is about your son's disorder and not your job. I have extend!

ed this offer to other families without your high profile. In the meantime take care of everyone and I hope to see Trig at the Special Olympic games. Take care. Paul, Netti and Lily.

Govenor Palin & Family,

Please accept my congradulations on the birth of your new baby boy Trig. You are in for many more blessings than you can imagine. My 11 year old son, Samuel, has Down Syndrome and is the "apple of my eye".

Trig will love unconditionally, and already has some of the best teachers he will need (your 4 older children).

His desire to be included, as well as their love and devotion to their baby brother, will become the catalist for his determination to learn.

If you will permit me, I would like to offer a couple of suggestions, coming from someone who has been where you are now.

LEARN SIGN LANGUAGE NOW - YOU AND YOUR ENTIRE FAMILY. This is very important, as Trig will be unable to express his wishes and feelings verbally for quite some time. Learn not only for this reason, but ASL (American Sign Language) will also serve to facilitate his verbal speech as well.

(Use ASL, Not Exact Sign. It is much easier to learn, for him and your family, and is most widly uitilized and understood.)

Its my hope and desire you, as a mother and public official, embrace and love this child with all that is within you. He will teach you and your family what complete and unconditional love is all about.

May God Bless and Keep You and Your Family Always,

Kelly Sweeten (aka; Samuel's Daddy)

Hi Sarah -

I'm currently employed at the University of Idaho, where I just noticed your photo on the main website. Imagine my shock when I clicked for more info, did a quick websearch, and discovered that you're a Republican and - it would appear - a conservative as well! :) Actually, that's what led to the websearch - I couldn't imagine a Governor of Alaska who WASN'T conservative, and seeing you featured on a university website was a surprise - and a good one. Needless to say, being conservative isn't very popular on university campuses...

At any rate, I just dropped in to say hello and congratulate you on your governorship - very cool, especially at such a relatively young age!

AND - even more importantly - it appears that congrats are also in order on a new member of your family! :)

Pleased to meet you, and I wish you all the best!

MESSAGE:

Dear Govenor Palin,

I saw the story regarding the birth of your son Trig, who has Down Syndrome. Like yourself, I too, was diagnosed before birth, that our daughter Kylee, would be born with Down Syndrome. She also had a severe heart defect which required open heart surgery. We also have two older children. I want to say that even though we have many challenges ahead of us, we are so blessed to have her in our lives. She is such a special child and continues to be such a joy to us. She will be 4 at the end of May and continues to make great strides in her development. I am also the Outreach Director for the Down Syndrome Association of San Antonio. Our goal is to reach as many families as possible to get them the support and help they need for these special children. I am so glad that you have made this public in the hopes that more will be done for our children. They need the full support of our government and our communities. I do hope that there is a Down Syndrome support group in your area that you are able to contact. I don't know what I would have done without them here where we live. We are all one "big" family! Again, congratulations of the birth of your son and hope that he is in good health.

Governor, Bill McAllister would like a few minutes with you today to talk about Senator Green's request to expand the call. We need to make sure the letter has been released before the interview.

Also, Steve Quinn with AP would like a phoner with you regarding Trig. He is doing a lengthy story on you and the baby to run this weekend. Al Grillo would like to snap a few photos for the story.

Governor Palin Responds to Expanded Call Request

April 23, 2008, Anchorage, Alaska – In response to Senate President Lyda Green's request to expand the call of the special session to include abortion bills, Governor Sarah Palin today outlined her willingness to consider a separate call if the Senate President can show a path to success.

House Bill 301, which prohibits the practice of partial-birth abortion, and House Bill 364, relating to parental consent, failed due to inaction by the Senate. The Governor expressed disappointment that Senate President Green did not exhaust every possible option during the regular session to move the legislation.

"Alaskans know I am pro-life and have never wavered in my belief in the sanctity of every human life," Governor Palin said. "These issues are so important they shouldn't be diluted with oil and gas deliberations."

Governor Palin called on Senate leadership to explain what they would do differently than last session to ensure that Alaskans will finally see a vote on both bills by the full Senate.

Ivy- pls make sure steve gets this (tho it doesn't explain we're talking about an AGIA sp session issue).

Frank- do we assume Bill will get this?

And pls make suire this goes to all media, not just ktuu. Wesley needs a flippin follow up to make sure he understands what we're saying here.

Governor Palin Responds to Expanded Call Request

April 23, 2008, Anchorage, Alaska – In response to Senate President Lyda Green's request to expand the call of the special session to include abortion bills, Governor Sarah Palin today outlined her willingness to consider a separate call if the Senate President can show a path to success.

House Bill 301, which prohibits the practice of partial-birth abortion, and House Bill 364, relating to parental consent, failed due to inaction by the Senate. The Governor expressed disappointment that Senate President Green did not exhaust every possible option during the regular session to move the legislation.

"Alaskans know I am pro-life and have never wavered in my belief in the sanctity of every human life," Governor Palin said. "These issues are so important they shouldn't be diluted with oil and gas deliberations."

Governor Palin called on Senate leadership to explain what they would do differently than last session to ensure that Alaskans will finally see a vote on both bills by the full Senate.

Before the summer driving season kicks in- and that's assuming we may not need legislation to eliminate collection of the gas tax. I'm hearing there are ways we may get to do this, and one catalyst is the Juneau power outage that some see as a vehicle to declare the necessity to give alaskans a break on outrageous energy costs.

Sharon just emailed the letter to Debbie Joslin, Debbie's going to try to call in before 5pm to help set this record straight.

Debbie had some awesome thoughts on how this issue went down previously.

First congratulations on Trig and your beautiful family statement about his birth. You and your family are an incredible witness to God's grace and I truly believe that is why God is blessing our State so abundantly. At your prayer breakfast you said you and Sean Parnell prayed for our State each morning. I consider it a privilege to pray for you and Sean each morning too.

For the past few years I have run a program in Kenai teaching Youth Employability Skills to youth with disabilities and high risk students. It has been very successful and one of my favorite students is Elijah, who also has Down's Syndrome. He is a hoot and I hope if you come to Kenai you can meet him someday.

I am now the Executive Director for New Frontier Vocational Technical Center and we just got a Denali Grant to teach a Career Skills Institute (CSI) Soldotna. We will be focusing on high growth careers in construction and oil and gas development. But most importantly we focus on values, integrity and soft skills. I hope it is okay to hold you and your family up as examples for youth to stay true to their beliefs, hold integrity in high regard, and make a life that will be a blessing to their families and communities.

Blessings to you and keep up the GREAT WORK!

Dear Governor Palin,

I wanted to personally congratulate you and your family on the birth of your son Trig.

I was touched by your press release and so grateful for the words that you chose.

You'll never know the impact it will have on our greater Alaska community to see the value and expectations of good you give to your son, regardless of any "label".

I have worked in the field of developmental disabilities for nearly 30 years. It was not a field I chose, it became a passion after a "temporary" job. Through the years so much progress has been made to create inclusive communities where everyone is valued, recognized for their gifts and talents, and allowed to dream, but there is more work to do.

We all welcome Trig and look forward to watching him grow and no doubt you and your family will continue to break down barriers that would keep any citizen from full inclusion and living a life full of family,friends, and adventure.

I wish you all joy!

Hello Governor Palin!

I am sorry if this is the wrong place to email you for this, but I just wanted to tell you congratulations for you new baby! I feel kind of silly writing to someone who does not know me, but I just felt that I needed to let you know that although things may seem scary and unknown now, it will only get better. My family has also been blessed with a special child, Jenny, who is now 17 years old. I know that you have probably had a lot of emails on this topic already, but i just wanted to share a poem that a great friend of mine gave me after I had Jenny. It is called "Heaven's Special Child", you may have already received this, but just in case I thought I would tell you about it. It really helped my husband and myself, especially since she and her twin brother Sean were our first children at the time and I was only 24 when I had them. I knew nothing about children with Down's and I was pretty scared at first, but everyone told me that was normal, and it is.

I hope people are not giving you are hard time about this, I know that it is a joyous time but also a hard time adjusting. Your emotions will be back and forth, and people can be cruel, but I just needed to let you know how much of a blessing it has been for our family to have been given Jenny. Not only to us, but for all of our friends and extended family. A lot of people at first thought that this would be too much for us, and they even apologized!! That drives me crazy! But, they just have no idea what they are missing out on in their lives. There is not a day that goes by that I don't thank God for my children, all three of them, they are all different and they will all give us challenges throughout our lives, but I would never want anything else. :)

Anyway, I didn't know how to attach the poem on this kind of email, so if you don't mind just googling Heaven's Special Child, please do, it is beautiful! I have it framed and in Jenny's "Princess" bedroom.

We are so very happy for you and your family. Get ready for some wonderful times!!

Take care,

Kristine Muller

Hi Sarah.

We hope everything is going great with your new baby and your family.

I have a quite a few important issues I would like to discuss with you.

1 I am working on a jet boat patent wich I feel is going to sell extremely well. I Hope to increase the propulsion efficientcy to be as good if not better than that of a proppellar drivin boat of the same horsepower.At the same time improve the reverse mode response and reverse turns so dramaticlly that I doubt it hard to ever be made better. I have the prototype almost finished and am thinking of selling it to one of the jet unit makers but I really feel that this state needs more manufactureing that sells to an outside market,and This device I think would be affordable to make here and could cause the proppellar industry big trouble. My patent attorney told me though that unless You have lots of money to protect your invention it will probably be best to sell it before someone who does have lots of money just takes it. So I am wondering if there are any state govronment incentive programs or partnership ventures that may be out there willing to Take a look at what I got and do a quick feasability study to see if this thing could be protected and manufactured in our State I know that if You read this Sarah you will know if it might be something worth looking into and where I may go to get the kind of help to investigate the matter further.Thank you for your time,I am looking foreward to your reply and your concerns and opinion.

I have been thoroughly upset and unwilling to believe much in our leaders deeds or objectives in the past So I would like to end this letter by saying Thank you for being our Govoner. I'm sure your job hasn't been easy so far. If theres anything I can ever do to help out in any way please don't hesitate in asking. Thank you and have a pleasant day

Congratulations on the birth of you son!!! He is so adorable. I know that not everyone is saying congratulations (although I hope they are). My son was born with Down Syndrome almost 25 years ago and people would notice he looked different and I would tell them he had Down Syndrome and they would get this horrified look on their face as if they said something wrong. We have come a long ways since then. I just wanted to tell you some hints I have collected over the years.

1) Infant learning is great and should be started as soon as you can.

2) Using sign language was essential for my son however I wish we would have pushed the speech a little more because he is hard to understand.

3) When its time for school the teachers may say they only have you son's interest in mind that isn't always true because they do have other students in mind. For my son I stayed in Glennallen because it is so small and my son was the only student with intensive needs he had his own aid which meant that he was totally included in the regular classroom from K - 12 he went on with the same group of students until he graduated (actually he walked with his class and then did 2 years vocational education). 2 good movies are Educating Peter and Graduating Peter. Learn your child's right under IDEA and being part of a support/advocacy group will help.

4) If anyone tells you that just because your son has Down Syndrome he won't graduate, or learn read or write or anything really don't believe them. The only limitations your son has is those you allow other people or yourself to give him.

5) Most important you can work and raise an other abled (I relly hate the word disabled) child. I raised 3 boys on my own 2 of which have disabilities one Down Syndrome and my youngest has Asperger's Syndrome which fits in the autism spectrum disorders. I worked full time at the local school and was a volunteer on the ambulance and fire dept.

I guess in conclusion I would say I hope you like the roller coaster because as you know with children it is always a roller coaster disabled or not. My mom would always says that's him being normal when I would complain. Good luck and best wishes.

Dear Gov. Palin & Family,

I just received a link to today's article in the Anchorage Daily News about your newest family member. I just wanted to congratulate you and although receiving the news that your son has Down syndrome was a bit of a shock and a cause for many adjustments, the article indicates that you and your family have a wonderful outlook for Trig's future.

The youngest of our four children and only son, was born just 4-1/2 years ago. He was also a month early and was even smaller than Trig -- Trafford was 4 lbs. 13 oz. Trafford also was born with Down syndrome. We did not get the diagnosis until his 2-week check-up when the karyotype came back.

Our son is the coolest, funniest, sweetest, most determined, little boy we could have ever hoped to have. Our family has its share of challenges, but I don't feel that they are much more than most families that have four children. Knowing what our life is like now, I wouldn't want to have Trafford any way other than how he is.

I have a feeling that your family will end up being the most wonderful ambassadors in educating others about Down syndrome. I will also make a prediction that Trig will be a great addition to your family and he and his siblings will accomplish many things that will make you proud.

Congratulations!

Gov. Sarah Palin,

I just wanted to write you and congratulate you on the birth of Trig. All children are special gift's from God and you have been blessed 5 times. I am the mother of two young girl's, ages 3 and 7 months and feel as though I have been blessed beyond words.

I did take maternity leave, the maximum allowed, and hope that you are able to find the time to sit back, and enjoy your new bundle. I have only seen the picture of him that was in the Fairbanks Daily News Miner this morning, but he looks perfect. Enjoy!!!!1

The Honorable Sarah Palin

Governor of Alaska

PO Box 110001

Juneau, AK 99811-0001

Dear Governor Palin:

Congratulations on the birth of your son!

I am a social worker in Anchorage. I work with families with children with severe emotional disturbances.

Please expand the agenda for the upcoming special session to include the restoration of Denali KidCare's (DKC) original maximum eligibility level of 200% of the federal poverty level (FPL).

DKC is a good bargain for the State of Alaska. The State of Alaska's share for both medical and behavioral health care would be only $865,000.

DKC will save the State of Alaska money in the long run. Children without health care get less preventative care, have much higher health risks and are four times more likely to use expensive emergency room care.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joclyn Reilly

Governor Palin,

First of all let me congratulate you on the birth of you beautiful baby boy! I am writing this to you as a fellow working mother. I want to thank you for the role you have taken as a mother and a successful professional woman. You are an inspiring role model to Alaskan women! I have struggled in balancing my roles as teacher and mother since having my first child three years ago. Watching you thrive as Governor with four children and through a pregnancy and birth has been inspiring.

Now with the birth of Trig again you are providing an amazing example of faith. I overheard some women talking about your pregnancy recently and wondering why you did not choose to abort. I want to thank you so much not only for your choice to embrace and love the gift that God has given you, but also for the voice you have given that love. Your thankfulness and love for your son is obvious. Your recognition that God has blessed you and your family with him is a testimony of faith.

Thank you for the example that you provide through your faith, commitment and success in balancing family with work!

God bless you!

Gov. Palin,

My husband, Kelly, and I wanted to take a moment to congratulate you on your new baby, Trig. What a special person you must be that God has entrusted you with this special blessing. Our son, Samuel, is 11 years old and has Down Syndrome. We knew of his condition at 20 weeks gestation. We were advised on several occasions to abort this child but we knew that was not an option for us. Thankfully, we had strong support from family, friends and our wonderful church family. Sam is a strong, very active boy who loves to swim, ride his bicylce and ATV, and play with his cocker spaniel, Toby. He loves basketball, baseball, soccer and football as well. He also loves to play on the phone - he accidentally called Oklahoma's Gov. Henry one day!

We want to encourage you with our story that although Trig may have special challenges, he will surely bless your life with love and laughter. Thank you for having the courage to accept him as he was created. We will pray for you and your family!

Kelly and Jennifer Sweeten

PS - We have vacationed in your great state many times. What awesome beauty you must enjoy daily!

I recently came across these and they may come in handy for your family FINE MOTOR SKILLS FOR CHILDREN WITH DOWN SYNDROME A guide for parents and professionals by Maryann Bruni GROSS MOTOR SKILLS IN CHILDREN WITH DOWN SYNDROME by Patrica Winders, EARLY COMMUNICATION SKILLS FOR CHILDREN WITH DOWN SYNDROME by Libby Kumin etc There are more. These books answer many questions that you may have at 2 in the morning. I wish you well. Also the University of Alabama Birmingham has a site with Cognitive Stimulation information. It breaks down tasks that work on many skills. It was developed for people who have had a head injury, but is informative and creative.

The last page deals with regular games that can be purchase at Walmart etc and tells you what skills they help with. I realize you have access to therapists etc. but many parents who I work with have found these types of resources helpful.

MESSAGE:

Governor Palin,

I just want to wish you congratulations on your new son! I have a gorgeous daughter, Lilly, who is 22 months and has Down syndrome. When Lilly was born, I needed to hear one thing, and that is what I am passing on to you: "Do not worry - your child will be amazing!" Ignore every piece of negative outdated information that you hear. My daughter is very smart - not only can she say about 30 words, but she knows sign language and can sign over 50 words! She is funny and beautiful and is exactly the child I always thought we would have - she is so much like myself! A few days ago she was playing independently, putting her "dolls" to sleep as she loves to do, but then she took out a toy stethescope, put it on her ears, and started checking her baby's heartbeat! Such a joy.

My husband and I are both well-educated; I am a lawyer, working as a legal analyst (publishing statutes for Washington at LexisNexis), and my husband is a doctor. I'm just 26 years old, and my husband is 31, and Lilly is our first child, although we'd like a big family eventually. We've had many people tell us what our daughter's potential would be, in a negative way, and she's already exceeding every expectation. Someone told me she'd never be able to turn on a light switch; another person told me she'd never brush her own teeth. She mastered these skills at about 18 months. :) Trust in your son first, and let him be your guide. And enjoy every minute, as you have with your other children. In so many ways, Lilly has been much easier than our friends' "typically developing" kids - she's been on over 30 flights; she's been to Disney World twice and loved it (even at her age!), Puerto Rico, NYC, and countless other cities; and she is the star student in Little Gym and Kindermusi

k. She does great in a regular daycare, and is more well-known for her pigtails and fashion sense than for having DS. One of her best qualities is that she appreciates almost every situation, and tries to get the most out of every minute of the day. She draws people in so charismatically; I've never seen anything comparable in another child. She gets more compliments than a girl needs! and it's not because of her chromosomes; it's because of who she is.

Early Intervention services can start early - we started at 3 weeks with physical therapy, and now she does OT and Speech as well; although she only qualifies because of her diagnosis, not because she's delayed in those two areas. She does have hypotonia, and is not walking indpendently yet (probably another month or two); but she can run while pushing a baby walker. And keep up with the health care guidelines; check for sleep apnea, thyroid issues, heart defects, hearing issues, etc - but the good news is that all of these are easily treatable. Also, there's a great book called "Gifts" written by 60 moms who rejoice in their kids with DS, I highly recommend it.

I wish you all the best; and I'm so excited for the journey you are starting. Your new son will enrich your life in ways you never dreamed. I've never laughed so much in my life than I do every day with Lilly. If you ever need anything, don't hesitate to contact me.

Best,

Cathleen Sherman

Hello Govenor Sarah Palin,

While I can understand that the loss of the power line from the hydroelectric plant to Juneau is a real problem for Juneau, I don't see why their having to pay for diesel for 3 months is a disaster warranting $25M of public money. Seriously, let's get real here. In Fairbanks we are paying for diesel every day of the year to generate much of our electricity. Why is this not an emergency or disaster also. The villages are even worse off. I would gladly pay for the diesel electricity for 3 months and then start getting the hydroelectric generated rates that Juneau gets all the rest of the time. What ever happened to the Energy Cost Equalization Program?

Congratulations on the new addition to the Palin family.

Thanks for listening,

Congratulations on the birth of your son, Trig. I am sure he will be a joy for you and your family.

I am writing to you in support of SB 221. As one of the owners of Frontier Alaska and formerly Hageland Aviation, we have been a strong supporter of the Yuut-Yaqunguiat Flight Achool in Bethel. As the operator of the largest 135 commuter airline in the United States we have a never ending need for pilots and mechanics. We have made a commitment and a guarantee to all graduates of the school, a job as a pilot or a mechanic. I think of it as a reward for the opportunity they have given themselves to be self-reliant as professional pilots and mechanics and to become role models for young people in rural Alaska.

We have 15 native pilots in our workforce. Our chief pilot is a native from Mountain Village. We need the flight school to continue because it is so integral to Frontier Alaska's goal of an all native workforce in the bush.

Thank you for your support.

Congratulations on the birth of your beautiful son. I also have a child with Down Syndrome. I was married before and had 3 adopted children (all siblings) who are now in their 20's. I remarried, and experienced my first natural pregnancy at the age of 46. Eric was born at 31 weeks gestation. He was a tiny 3lbs-2oz. He spent 41 days in the NICU but thankfully, he did very well. He wasn't diagnosed with Down Syndrome until he was 3 weeks old. And even though I am a pediatric nurse, I was scared, sad, and overwhelmed. With the support of some excellant doctors, family, and friends, I was able to put these feelings aside and just think of Eric as a baby....my baby. And now my "baby" is almost 8 years old. He is the shining star of our family. Everyone is totally in love with this young man....and he is the glue that holds everyone together. We have been truly blessed....as you have been too.

Enjoy your precious child, and take things as they come. If you ever want to talk, or need advice, please e-mail me.

Dear Governor:

First, many warm wishes to your family from our family for Trig's birth. You'll be one busy person now, but we all know you are a strong woman and up to your multiple callings. I will keep you and Trig in my prayers.

And next...I just read the article in the Daily News that the Correctional Officers Union issued a censure of Joe Schmidt. I want you to know that I stand by my opinion - which I have shared with you on several occasions - that your appointment of Joe was brilliant. Joe and I have not spent much time together recently, but I follow Corrections carefully and I know that he is doing well in all areas. His comment in the newspaper that taking a firm hand in investigations on Officer wrong doing strained his relationship with the Union is correct. The union is run by the same group as when I served as Commissioner and had they thought of censuring me, they certainly would have done so. I consider the action meaningless in every sense.

Joe Schmidt is making strides towards turning the Correctional Officer workforce into a professional team that will run an ethical and committed Department. While Joe and I have not discussed this issue, I know without asking that the union activists object to being held to higher standards.

Regarding the medical question behind which the activists are hiding, communicable diseases -unfortunately- are now and will continue to be major issues for institutions of all types that house large groups of people - including tour ships, as you know. Again, I know without asking that Joe knows the agencies that set guidelines for dealing with outbreaks.

My apologies for such a lengthy e-mail. I just want you to know that Joe Schmidt is doing the right things.

With best personal regards,

Margaret M. Pugh

You are very correct in the statement that you were given Trig. Cierra has been the greatest joy of our entire family, she has taught our children how to be kind, generous, patient and compassionate. She has the best disposition and because we have 3 other teenagers and all of their friend around she is quite "mainstream" in most ways.

You will always enjoy the gift of your son. Our oldest daughter Aerial graduates this year and our 16 year old Autumn will graduate next year, then our son Quest 3 years later....they will all leave. I am glad Cierra will always be close.

Governor Palin

Wonderful to hear of your new addition to your family!

My son, Corey, is 22 years old and special needs. He is A.D.H.D., Autistic, Mentally Retarded and has Petit Mal Seizures which is controlled by medication.

I also at first was sad as to my son's problems. One of Corey's first special needs teachers gave me this, which we keep posted on our refrigerator, and it gave me a much needed different perspective on Corey's life.

Welcome to Holland

I am often asked to describe the experience of raising a child with a disability--to try to help people who have not shared that unique experience to understand, to imagine how it would feel. It's like this...

When you're going to have a baby, it's like planning a fabulous vacation trip--to Italy. You buy a bunch of guidebooks and make your wonderful plans. The Coliseum. The Michelangelo David. The gondolas in Venice. You may learn some handy phrases in Italian. It's all very exciting.

After months of eager anticipation, the day finally arrives. You pack your bags and off you go. Several hours later, the plane land. The stewardess comes in and says, "Welcome to Holland."

"Holland?!" you say. "What do you mean, Holland? I signed up for Italy! I'm supposed to be in Italy! All my life I've dreamed of going to Italy!"

But there's been a change in the flight plan. They've landed in Holland, and there you must stay.

The important thing is that they haven't taken you to a horrible, disgusting, filthy place, full of pestilence, famine and disease. It's just a different place.

So you must go out and buy new guidebooks. And you must learn a whole new language. And you will meet a whole new group of people you would never have met.

It's just a different place. It's slower-paced than Italy, less flashy than Italy. But after you've been there for a while and you catch your breath, you can look around, and you begin to notice that Holland has windmills, Holland has tulips. Holland even has Rembrandts.

But everyone you know is busy coming and going from Italy, and they're all bragging about what a wondrful time they had there. And for the rest of your life, you will say, "Yes, that's where I was supposed to go. That's what I had planned."

And the pain of that will never, ever go away, because the loss of that dream is a very significant loss.

But if you spend your life mourning the fact that you didn't get to Italy, you may never be free to enjoy the very special, the very lovely things about Holland.

I have been to Holland and it is a wonderful place as is Corey. You sound like you have a good perspective and we wish you all the best.

Dave and Maureen Berlin

MESSAGE:

Congratulations on your little boy. I wish him a very long, happy and healthy life.

We also have a little one with DS. She is now 21 months and is FANTASTIC, of course we are a bit biased!

When a child with DS is born it can be quite a shock, it was for us. She was our 3rd and very much loved child. I just wanted to tell you a little bit about her so that you will see that although there is lots of bad news out there you very rarely get to hear the good news.

Gianna was born when I was 43 so DS was a possibility but we didnt want an amnio. When she was born we were told within an hour that she had DS but we had nearly lost her, not because of the DS, but because she was being starved due to a cord and placenta problem which the professionals hadnt noticed. Anyway the thought of nearly loosing her made the DS pale.

She had lots of tests and was eventually given the all clear. Naturally it was a tough time for us adjusting to the future. I found myself asking questions that I had never asked with the other 2, "would she be able to drive", "would she marry", crazy when she was a day old!!!!!

Anyway she is a fighter and at 21 months has been walking since she was 18 months, runs, climbs everywhere, works tasks out for herself, can get herself food and a drink if she needs them, has never had more than a cold, has passed all her medicals, smiles at everyone and is a real charmer and basically is fantastic!

You often hear about all the bad cases of DS but there are children out there like Gianna who will really show the world that DS is not such a bad thing.

When she was little I did baby massage and baby yoga with her every day and it made a fantastic difference, breastfeeding also was vital I am sure.

You may already have heard of it but if not there is a fantastic multi vitamin for people with DS which can be taken from birth, its called Nutrivene D and is highly recommended by many Drs in the US who specialise in DS. We have been giving it to Gianna since 6 months and she really is thriving. We give our other 2 a multivitamin so why not Gianna too.

I wish you and your family all the very best and many many Congratulations..

Best wishes

Elvina Hutchinson - Very proud Mummy of 3

Another issue on my mind is a more down-to-earth issue. With the soaring gas prices, what are the chances of the legislature meeting under special session and exempting Alaskans from the state gas tax for the summer? Alaska is especially blessed with high revenue from oil. Why not get a little relief from the price at the pump? Please do what you can. Thanks, David W. O'Dell

Hi Mr. Kelsey,
That was not where we left it to my recollection. I will not argue with you. Please clarify my understanding of the State's position then. Correct me if I am wrong, please; you are saying then, if a person has no finances with which to pursue a legal defense and representation (for having a claim of permanent disability) and consequently a recourse when unethically treated and denied, that it is of no matter to the State? As long as it happens without being found out and/or known, the State is not interested? Did you, sir, sign any paperwork what-so-ever regarding ethical behavior or has it been done away with in favor of the more profitable "within the law"? Or respecified, perhaps to mean only when dealing with specific issues? I'm curious. I live daily with a horrible disease, medications either don't work or work only briefly. Nothing has changed in all the years with the exception that I get worse, never better. I had disability insurance, which by way replaced Social Security earnings. By my last calculations the State has unethically and unfairly denied me what was mine to have in the neighborhood of over 200k.
I am requesting an audience with Gov. Palin. Please set it up for me. Thank you.

Dear Governor Sarah Palin and family,

Many blessings to you and your family and the birth of your son Trig Paxson Van Palin. I love the name. I am very sorry to hear that he has Down Syndrome, however, the Lord knew he would have that before he was born. I am sure he is a very special child and through it all will be a blessing to you and your family. Am praying that the Lord give you strength and quick recovery and that He give you and your family a very special love for Trig.

Blessings to you as you continue to lead the State of Alaska in the political realm and as a mother and wife to your family.

Governor,

You likely don't remember me (which is fine), but we have spoken a few times and I campaigned for you a little in Fairbanks.

I wanted to write and congratulate you and Todd on the birth of your son Trig. As the father of six of my own, I am a fairly strong advocate for "the more the merrier" approach to childrearing. I also wanted to share my own experience of having a sister with Down syndrome (also a nephew). My sister's advent in my parent's middle age years—as the caboose to a train of seven previous children was certainly a challenge for the whole family. Even then however, we recognized that challenge for the blessing that it was. It brought our family closer together, gave us focus in a common cause and made us self-centered older children quite a bit less self-centered. My sister has blessed the lives of my parents and siblings for the last forty-plus years and has been an integral and joyful part of the family. As a side-benefit, I think she has kept my parents young at heart through their seventies and eighties. I think that you will find your lives similarly blessed.

My wife and I pray for your success in this new adventure and challenge—as we do for your success in office.

Best regards and wishes

Maybe it is NOT a genetic issue, but a chemical exposure that damages our child's genes?

coming to Alaska.

Arctic Power is taking a number of steps to correct errors = in the recent news stories, including contacts with the Associated = Press, Anchorage Daily News, and Fairbanks News-Miner. Specifically, = AP is emphasizing that no State funds are involved in Mr. Liddy's visit = and that he is not being "hired." I believe that Arctic Power = intends to pay Mr. Liddy's travel costs from non-public funds.

I was also told that he is contemplating a possible appearance on the = Rick Rydell show tomorrow further to clarify the record.

Please note that my email address has = changed. My new email address = is <mailto:jwkatz@alaskadc.org> jwkatz@alaskadc.org. = Thank you .

Dear Margaret,

Thank you so much for your concern in regards to the Governor and her family's health. At the Governor's House we take every precaution to not use any products that would have an ill effect on the Governor's health or that of her family or guests. We will take into account the information that you have provided and the negative health effects that exposure to EGBE may cause.

We are appreciative of the information that you have provided.

Best regards,
Erika

What cleaning products are used in the Governor's Mansion?

Especially any that are sprayed?

Maybe it is NOT a genetic issue, but a chemical exposure that damages our child's genes?

I wonder about whether or not Down's Syndrome itself could happen because of a malfunctioning immune system? ... that EGBE exposure would cause? ... sniffles, flatulence, diarrhea, 'flu' are what exposure looks like.

If so, I think glyconutrients should be checked into for good nutrition for mom and baby

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE No. 08-064

Governor Palin Responds to Expanded Call Request

April 23, 2008, Anchorage, Alaska – In response to Senate President Lyda Green's request to expand the call of the special session to include abortion bills, Governor Sarah Palin today outlined her willingness to consider a separate call if the Senate President can show a path to success.

House Bill 301, which prohibits the practice of partial-birth abortion, and House Bill 364, relating to parental consent, failed due to inaction by the Senate. The Governor expressed disappointment that Senate President Green did not exhaust every possible option during the regular session to move the legislation.

"Alaskans know I am pro-life and have never wavered in my belief in the sanctity of every human life," Governor Palin said. "These issues are so important they shouldn't be diluted with oil and gas deliberations.

Governor Palin called on Senate leadership to explain what they would do differently than last session to ensure that Alaskans will finally see a vote on both bills by the full Senate.
